

Theophane out to Cook up title shot

CONFIDENT Ashley Theophane defends his British title tomorrow, but wants the WBC light-welterweight belt held by Timothy Bradley. Theophane, a 30-year-old Londoner, faces former European champion Jason Cook after claiming his British crown with an impressive victory over the relentless Lenny Daws. Theophane has a good pedigree having beaten the highly respected Delvin Rodriguez in the United States as well as DeMarcus Corley. He said: 'A classy win will help me land a European title shot and will be a big step towards a crack at a world title. I would love to fight Timothy Bradley. I want to fight the best out there.'